- Last session in Capitol. Go back to First Thursday of every month. Location to be determined

Round table -

Andrew Riggle reported that most of the major decisions have been made and are on the blue sheet. But nothing is set in stone until Thursday at 11:59 pm. There are bills with fiscal notes that won't pass that they have set aside money for on the assumption that they will pass. This will free up $ that they set aside that can be used for other things

- Both Caucuses are given a little money that they can prioritize within their caucus. It is expected that the conversation has largely occurred but won't be officially allocate until the end of the session. It is worth conversations with legislators to say if there is anything left at the end of the session please consider having those conversations.
